Report on Academic Writing - I and II

Academic Writing is the most interesting as well as a tumultuous process of any research endeavour. The process of writing an academic paper or dissertation can be extremely different from other types of written English. Writing academically implies having a structured, evidence based and formal tonality. Researchers often lack the specific skill sets to plan the writing process systemically owing to negligence of training in writing skills at different educational levels. The lack of writing study centers make the situation more grim.

In this backdrop, on February 18, 2021 and 19, 2021, Science Society of KRMU, hosted Seminars on Academic Writing-I and Academic Writing-II respectively within School of Basic and Applied Science (SBAS). The aim was to train the participants with the different skills beneficial for academic writing. Even though each discipline may have a range of writing conventions, vocabulary and discourse there are certain components of the process which are common to every subject area.

Dr. Pawan Kumar, Assistant Professor at the SBAS, KRMU and member of Abdul Kalam Science Society, was the speaker at both the seminars.

During the event, he detailed the basic rules for preparation of scientific publications in academic journals in English, the structure of publications, the main mistakes in publication preparation and writing. Particular attention was paid to such issues as construction of argumentation system in scientific publication, formulation and description of the research task, selection of methodology, study of works on the issues of the scientific research, and the analysis of scientific journals.

The seminars were organized for Ph.D. scholars, as well as for students, post-graduate students, and University Professors.

Webinar on Sports Broadcasting

By Sports Anchor Mr. Jatin Sapru

Under the aegis of K.R. Mangalam University, the School of Journalism and Mass Communication organized a virtual live webinar on sports broadcasting through Facebook and Zoom application and a renowned sports journalist working as a sports anchor at Star Sports network, Mr. Jatin Sapru. The following session commenced at noon after a brief introduction and welcome greetings presented by Ms. Shruti Sharma, undergraduate student, SJMC. After this, Mr. Sapru took over the session and began with a statement 'There was no struggle in my life, whatever I have seen so far in my life, those were all great experiences which I will cherish for my entire life'. Following this, he narrated his life story and his journey in the field of sports journalism, in which he emphasized and said 'Honesty is the way out if you don't have a goal be honest to yourself, and you will find a way out.'

To make the session more interactive and to get a better understanding of the topic, a question-and-answer session was also observed in the session, which was supervised by Mr. Tarun Joshi, Assistant professor, Department of Journalism and Mass Communication, and with all due generosity, Mr. Sapru answered all of them. Amidst that, he narrated many anecdotes and snippets about his memorable moments and interactions with some famous personalities like Rahul Dravid, Virat Kohli, Mahendra Singh Dhoni, and many more. Mr. Sapru's optimistic outlook towards life and career made the session more captivating. All his insights kept the audience hooked to the webinar, which made the entire session a success. The session ended with a short vote of thanks by Dr. Kiran Bala, Dean, School of Journalism and Mass Communication.
