(57) Abstract :

The present invention relates to the field of Artificial Intelligence, and its utility is to enable and Develop English Language Teaching or Learning Skills. Artificial intelligence (AI) has the potential to enhance English language teaching and learning skills significantly. Natural Language Processing (NLP) for Language Understanding: NLP enables AI systems to understand and generate human language. These AI-based language partners can help learners practice conversation skills, answer questions, provide explanations, and offer language guidance in real-time. AI-powered language learning apps and platforms can provide a personalized learning experience for English language learners. The use of AI algorithms to analyze learner data, track progress, and recommend relevant learning materials based on individual needs and interests. They can offer interactive exercises, quizzes, games, and immersive language experiences to enhance language acquisition. AI-based automated writing evaluation systems can assess learners' writing skills, provide feedback on grammar, vocabulary and sentence structure, and suggest improvements.
