DEEKSHAARAMBH: STUDENT INDUCTION PROGRAMME

Student Induction Programme was organized by Office of the Dean Student Welfare in coordination with all schools of K.R. Mangalam University from 21st August 2023 to 25th August 2023.

The transition from school to university is one of the most challenging events in a student's life. When a student enters an institution, he/ she comes with diverse thoughts, backgrounds and preparations. An induction program helps the students acclimatize to their new roles and environment. The Student Induction Programme is a comprehensive orientation process designed to introduce new students to the university or educational institution, familiarize them with campus life, academic expectations, and support services, and create a sense of belonging within the campus community. This program aimed to ease the transition for incoming students, provide essential information, and help them integrate successfully into the academic and social environment. It is an initiative to make the new students adjust and feel comfortable in the new environment, inculcate in them the ethos and culture of the University, and help them bond with the faculty and other students. This aims to engage the new students as they have come to the University before their regular classes start.

The five-day induction programme has been scheduled keeping in mind the importance of this transition period from school to university life. The sessions have been meticulously designed to ensure students' holistic development, hence preparing them for their successful career. This programme covers a number of different aspects like socializing, associating, governing and experiencing. It includes the following activities:

1. Physical Activity: This involves a daily routine of physical activities with sports and games. These are helpful in developing a sense of teamwork. Under this, KRMU provides its students with numerous indoor and outdoor games. The University organizes regular sports activities and competitions for students and faculty members to enhance their physical and mental health. The students from KRMU also participate in sports events held by other universities/colleges and institution

2. Mentoring: Mentoring takes place in the context and setting of universal human values. It is the most important part which helps students connect with the university, faculty and other students. It gets the student to explore oneself and allows one to experience the joy of learning, stand up to peer pressure, take decisions with courage, be aware of relationships, be sensitive to others, understand the role of money in life, and feel prosperity, etc. Mentoring is a means to connect with the students and most importantly to build relationships between teachers and students which last for their upcoming 3 to 4 years and possibly beyond. For this, a Mentor (Faculty) is allotted to a particular Mentee (Student) for her/his entire stay at the university. This is done with an objective to build and maintain a stronger bond between the two in a longer duration for the growth of the Mentee. It is done by getting students to explore and think by engaging in dialogue, group discussions and real-life activities. The bond so generated helps the students during tough times in study courses

3. Familiarization to School/Department - Through these sessions the students are familiarized with their schools/departments and programme of their study, labs and other facilities.

4. Creative Arts and Culture- The students are exposed to culture and art forms like painting, sculpture, music, dance etc. which enable them to express themselves creatively. This helps students develop a sense of aesthetics and enhances creativity which flows into their studies too.

5. Literary Activities- Literary activities encompass opportunities like debating, reading, writing, enacting a play etc. through such activities, the students explore the richness of languages and thereby contributes to it.

6. Lectures by Eminent People- Lectures by eminent people are regularly organized by the schools/departments for their students so that they are given exposure to various facets of their academic as well as professional life. For this, professors, alumni, socially active people, professional experts and industrial experts are invited so that the students can keep themselves updated and informed.

7. Visits to Local Area- The University also takes its students on visits to industries, villages for extension programmes, orphanages, visits etc. which helps them bond with each other on the one hand while on the other hand it also attaches them with the society at large and do some community service

8. Co-Curricular Activities- K. R. Mangalam University continuously works towards developing the students academically and advancing their leadership qualities and interpersonal skills to prepare them to play an effective role in society. Besides teaching, the university also provides social, cultural, musical, recreational and sporting facilities to enable each student to realize their academic and personal potential while studying at the university. To provide the students with all the required opportunities and adequate amenities for all round development of personality and leadership, different clubs and societies have been established. These clubs and societies essentially work toward student-centered development. It is a forum, where through the mode of cultural and other such activities, the students meet each other, exchange ideas and develop into good human beings. Through the active engagement of students, fresh talents in stage, literature, art, science etc are identified. The objectives of these clubs and societies are to promote mutual contact, a democratic outlook and a spirit of oneness among students by simultaneously developing their social, cultural and intellectual aspects. They specifically work towards identifying the general needs of the students and then conduct various co-curricular activities like sports, NSS, cultural, and health-related activities. This facilitates the students to come closer and work together as a team while organizing and conducting big events like freshers' meets, cultural programmes or annual fests etc. Activities organized by different clubs/societies work towards social awareness, social upliftment, environmental conservation and several other initiatives that the faculty and students take up together as a team. Rallies, blood donation camps, awareness drives, plantation drives etc. have helped students to connect with society and adopt an empathetic attitude. The student who enrolls in the University has to select one Club/Society of her/his choice from amongst 16 different clubs and societies operational at K. R. Mangalam University. After getting associated with the club/society of their choice, the students work in coherence with the other team members and towards achieving the goals of the concerned club/society. The student, in this way, gets a platform to showcase her/his talent, plan and organize various events at our own university and can participate in the competitions held at other universities/colleges and institutions.

Establishment of the Vermicompost Unit at K.R. Mangalam University

Vermicompost, an organic fertilizer produced through the decomposition of organic waste by earthworms, is a cornerstone of sustainable agriculture. This natural process not only recycles kitchen scraps, farm residues, and other biodegradable materials but also results in a nutrient-rich soil conditioner that enhances plant growth and soil health. Vermicompost is rich in essential nutrients like nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium, and it improves soil structure, water retention, and microbial activity. By reducing the need for chemical fertilizers, vermicomposting promotes environmentally friendly farming practices, leading to healthier crops, increased yields, and a more balanced ecosystem. School of Agricultural Sciences has established vermi-compost unit by the contribution of Dr. Dinesh Kumar and Dr. Joginder Singh Yadav, Dean SOAS at KRMU campus..

COLLECTION AND SURVEY OF THE WEED FLORA DIVERSITY IN CULTIVATED AND NON-CULTIVATED LANDS OF THE NEARBY AREA OF SOHNA

School of Agricultural Sciences conducted a field visit to the cultivated and non-cultivated lands of nearby area of the Sohna for the collection and survey of weed flora diversity in the region. The purpose of this visit was to study the diversity of weed species present in different types of land and to assess their impact on the surrounding ecosystem. The students visited various sites including cultivated fields, fallow lands, and natural habitats to Identify and document the presence of weed flora. Weed identification and collection are crucial aspects of agricultural and ecological management for the following reasons: In the cultivated lands, the students observed a variety of weed species: Cirsium arvense, Convolvulus arvensis, Conyza bonariensis, Cynodon dactylon, Cyperus rotundus, Parthenium hysterophorus and Sonchus asper. These weeds were found to compete with the cultivated crops for nutrients, water, and sunlight, potentially reducing the overall yield of the crops. In the non-cultivated lands, a different set of weed species were identified, such Chenopodium album, Amaranthus spp., Stellaria spp., Taraxacum officinale, Cirsium arvense. These weeds provide a habitat and food sources for various organisms. Overall, the field visit provided valuable insights into the diversity and impact of weed flora in cultivated and non-cultivated lands. By implementing appropriate management practices, it is possible to strike a balance between controlling weeds in agricultural fields while preserving the ecological functions of non-cultivated lands. Students also prepared a consolidated herbarium of weeds. The event was successfully oraganized by Dr. Parita and coordinated by Dr. Anjali Tomar, Dr. Deepak Loura.
