School of Legal Studies, K.R. Mangalam University organized an Expert session on Professional Ethics for Faculties on 26th September 2024 at 12:00 A.M. onwards for the law Faculties to make them understand the importance of ethics in the law profession and teaching in Higher Educational Institutions. This report aims to provide a comprehensive overview of professional ethics for faculties in higher education institutions. Faculty members play a pivotal role in shaping the educational experience of students and contributing to the academic community. Upholding professional ethics is essential to maintain the integrity and reputation of both individual educators and their institutions

This aims to underscore the importance of professional ethics in academia, delineate essential ethical principles, and provide practical guidance for faculty to maintain these standards. This report addresses multiple facets of professional ethics, as emphasized by the resource person, including academic integrity, research ethics, interpersonal relationships, and the responsibilities of faculty towards students and coworkers. The Speaker, Adv. Tejpal Yadav, addressed the topic of Academic Integrity, encompassing plagiarism and equitable evaluation, emphasizing that faculty should educate students about plagiarism and refrain from participating in it themselves.

Accurate citation and recognition of sources are crucial, and for grading and evaluation purposes, they should be equitable and objective, free from prejudice or bias. Clarity in grading standards is essential.

Resource person Adv. Tejpal Yadav emphasized critical subjects such as Institutional Responsibilities and Student Responsibilities, highlighting the necessity for faculty to comply with institutional policies and procedures, particularly concerning research, academic standards, and student welfare. He underscored that reporting any instances of academic or research misconduct is a serious obligation for faculty. Furthermore, he advocated for supportive teaching methodologies to be employed by faculty members to ensure high-quality instruction, guidance, and mentorship, while maintaining accessibility for students seeking academic assistance, advising, and feedback in return. He also discussed the importance of ethical conduct among colleagues, emphasizing that faculty should foster ethical behavior among their peers and report any ethical transgressions appropriately.

The objective of this training program is to emphasize the honor and dignity of the legal profession, with professional ethics serving as the foundation of academia. Faculty members must exemplify and maintain the highest ethical standards in their pedagogy, research, and interpersonal relations. In doing so, they boost educational quality and bolster the legitimacy and integrity of their institutions. The session emphasized the necessity of frequent ethics training and workshops for faculty, along with clear and accessible institutional regulations regarding academic integrity and research ethics. Encourage faculty members to exemplify ethical behavior for pupils. Faculties, as the principal source of information and mentors to future generations, bear a significant obligation to uphold and advocate for ethical conduct in all their professional activities.
