Introduction

On December 14, 2023, KRMU International Relations received officials from Scotland Rural College (SRUC), Edinburgh, Scotland, for a campus tour and fruitful discussions, marking a significant step towards internationalization. Our Honourable VC Sir Prof. Ankush Mittal, as well as distinguished faculty members Prof. Joginder Yadav, Dean of SOAS, Dr. Seema Raj, Associate Dean of Research Grant, and Dr. Meenakshi Gujral, KRMU International Relations, cordially welcomed them.

During the visit, both of the organizations had extensive discussions about potential avenues for cooperation. These included potential partnerships in the areas of Immersive Summer School and Progression programs, which are designed for undergraduate and graduate students. The main areas of collaboration were agri-business, project management, farm management, and marketing of farm products. SRUC, Scotland expressed a willingness to work with KRMU on these projects and emphasized the potential benefits that both organizations may get from such endeavors. SRUC delegates were pleased to see KRMU respond with similar zeal, showing a sincere interest in cooperative consultation initiatives. The collaboration between KRMU and SRUC, Scotland, has the potential to benefit both students and professors as it develops.
