

SDG 16: Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions
(Report 2023-24)

16.1.1 Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions: CiteScore

In 2024, the Cumulative CiteScore of 2.4 underscores the prominence and caliber of the university's research contributions in governance, legal studies, and institutional development. The publications address subjects including conflict resolution, human rights, legal reforms, public policy, and methods for enhancing institutional capacities. This CiteScore indicates that the university's research is acknowledged within both academic and policy-focused circles, aiding global initiatives aimed at fostering peaceful and equitable societies.

16.1.2 Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions:

The average Field-Weighted Citation Impact (FWCI) of 0.405 signifies that these publications receive a moderate level of citations in comparison to the global average. Although the FWCI indicates potential for increased international visibility, it also demonstrates the university's developing involvement in research that tackles intricate socio-political and legal challenges.

16.1.3: Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions – Publications

The 23 publications associated with SDG 16 demonstrate K.R. Mangalam University's dedication to interdisciplinary research encompassing law, political science, public administration, and social justice. Through these academic contributions, the university fosters the understanding and application of equitable governance, accountable institutions, and strategies for peace-building. These initiatives are in accordance with UN Sustainable Development Goal 16.

16.2.1 Elected representation Year: 2024

The institution guarantees participatory and transparent governance through the establishment of an elected Student Council, which provides students with a platform to voice their opinions and actively participate in decision-making processes. The council includes representatives from various schools and departments, thereby promoting leadership, accountability, and inclusivity within the student body. Regular elections are conducted in a fair and democratic manner, encouraging student engagement, responsibility, and collaboration with the administration to improve campus welfare, discipline, and community development. This participatory framework strengthens institutional governance and fosters democratic values that are in harmony with the principles of peace, justice, and strong institutions.

16.2.1 Student Council Policy 2023-24

16.2.2 Students' union Year: 2024

Although there is no formal Students' Union, the institution features an active Student Council that serves a comparable function and responsibility. This council plays a vital role in representing the student body and works in conjunction with faculty and administration to address student concerns, enhance campus life, and promote overall well-being. Members of the council are selected based on their qualifications, leadership abilities, and commitment to student development. They participate in organizing academic, cultural, and social events, thereby encouraging harmony, inclusivity, and a shared sense of responsibility. Through this representative body, the institution upholds the values of participatory governance and student empowerment, aligning with the vision of peace, justice, and strong institutions.

The KRMU Student Council operates under the supervision of the Office of the Dean – Student Welfare (DSW) and includes representatives from all academic schools and programmes. Its structure comprises:

- President
- Vice President
- General Secretary
- Cultural, Sports, and Academic Representatives from each school

The Council ensures inclusive representation, giving voice to students from diverse academic and social backgrounds.

Roles and Responsibilities:

- Serve as the primary communication bridge between students and administration.

- Address student welfare and campus development issues through structured dialogue.
- Plan and organize academic, cultural, sports, and community engagement programmes.
- Promote leadership, inclusivity, and social responsibility among the student body.
- Contribute to policy discussions and quality improvement processes at the institutional level.

Activities Conducted in 2024:

- Coordination of the annual KRMU Fiesta 2024 and Student Leadership Summit, enhancing leadership and teamwork.
- Student-led initiatives on mental health awareness, gender equality, and sustainability.
- Collaboration with NSS and social outreach cells to implement community welfare projects and organized more than 62 activities.
- Participation in inter-university cultural and sports events representing KRMU at state and national levels.

16.2.3 Identify and engage with local stakeholders Year: in place by 2024

The organization follows a clearly defined Policy on Local Stakeholder Identification and Engagement, which outlines a comprehensive framework for identifying, mapping, and interacting with individuals, groups, and organizations within the local community. This policy ensures significant collaboration with local government entities, educational institutions, non-governmental organizations, resident associations, and small businesses to address social, economic, and environmental issues. Engagement is guided by the principles of mutual benefit, inclusivity, transparency, and respect for cultural diversity. Regular consultations, community-based research, outreach initiatives, and service-learning programs are implemented to foster trust, gather feedback, and promote collective growth. Through these structured efforts, the institution strengthens its relationship with local stakeholders, supports community development, and aligns its outreach activities with the broader objectives of peace, justice, and strong institutions.
