Glasses, clocks and conversations flowed easily at the cocktail and dinner gala that was the toast for the IWEC South Asia Meet in the Capital. Hosted by PCCFLO in collaboration with the International Women's Entrepreneurial Challenge (IWEC) Foundation, the evening served as a lively prelude to two days of dialogue, discovery and celebration of women-led enterprise.

Among the evening's most engaging voices was Bhukta Anand, Chairperson of the IWEC Foundation, who shared a personal story from her classroom about a young woman asked to secure a meeting with a state governor in just 48 hours. "She thought she was being set up to fail," Anand recalled, adding, "But she reached out to her network and said, 'Girls, I need help.' In two hours, she had the appointment."

Pooja Sharma, President of PCCFLO, summed it up perfectly: "When we meet and share our experiences, we realize how much we have in common and how much more we can achieve together."

When creativity met technology: IDEAS 3.0 lights up K.R. Mangalam University

The second day of IDEAS 3.0 at K.R. Mangalam University, wrapped up on a high note, bringing together creativity, technology and innovation in a vibrant celebration of young talent. Students from schools and universities across Delhi-NCR participated in a wide range of activities that showcased innovation, leadership and artistic expression.

The university welcomed several distinguished guests, including Ramesh Chander Bhatia (IAS, Commissioner, Gurugram), Rajesh Kumar (Additional Commissioner of Customs and GST, Ministry of Finance), Dr. Manoj Dhar (Director, AICTE), Prof. B.C. Kohli (Former Vice-Chancellor, Central University of Haryana), Prof. Dr. R.K. (Former Chairperson, Delhi Judicial Academy) and other notable dignitaries from academia, healthcare and industry.

Prof. Rajesh Singh, Vice-Chancellor of K.R. Mangalam University, praised the students for their enthusiasm and creativity. He said IDEAS 3.0 reflects the university's belief in experiential learning and its mission to nurture confident, future-ready leaders.

The Innovation Exhibition and Canopy Display emerged as key attractions, drawing attention from visitors and judges alike. Students presented innovative projects and themed setups that combined technology, design and sustainability. The award for Best Canopy Exhibition recognized participants who showcased their creativity as a medium for storytelling and awareness around real-world challenges.

The campus buzzed with energy as students lit up the Arise Stage with dance, music and fashion performances. The Quad Arena drew large crowds with thrilling drone obstacle courses, robot races, and gaming contests, reflecting a perfect blend of skills, innovation and fun. Industry experts from CanSat, DP World, RSP Group, MDO Software, Jafra, and EBD interacted with students, discussing creativity, leadership and global career opportunities. The day concluded with a grand cultural finale and fashion showcase, celebrating the creative spirit of the students. The vibrant performances and enthusiastic participation turned the campus into a melting pot of ideas, art and youthful energy. The festival not only showcased the best of student innovation but also reaffirmed K.R. Mangalam University's vision to nurture change-makers who think, create, and lead with purpose.

At the two-day IDEAS 3.0 Fest, agriculture students of K.R. Mangalam University showcased low-cost bio inputs for organic, chemical-free farming.

Nothing says weekend like a dose of sunshine and sea breeze. Sunny Ganga gets major vacation envy as the Shangri-La groupies from her Maldives getaways, capturing her post-weekend mood. Meanwhile, Miami Roy's weekend looked calm and cool. The actor shared a series of photos captioned "14 pieces from today" after a quick trip to her villa in a paradisiacal and historic fort.

Collins says it's official: 2025 is running on vibes

Collins Dictionary has picked "vibe coding" as its Word of the Year, a term coined by OpenAI co-founder Andrej Karpathy to describe building an app or website simply by telling it what you want, instead of writing code yourself. The concept makes app-building as easy as chatting, letting even non-coders create simple tools like planners or note apps (though the heavy-duty stuff still needs human expertise). Other buzzwords that made Collins' 2025 shortlist include "clunker" (a Star Wars droid reference), "aura farming" (turning online energy for clout), and "inteligency" (power structures dominated by male intelligence).
